ALEXANDRIA is a contemporary romance novel about Lori, a shy young writer who befriends a famous novelist via letters. They correspond for years and the young girl shares her most intimate thoughts, dreams and goals.

But Alexandria is not the person Lori thinks she's writing to. When Lori learns the truth about her writer friend she feels betrayed. In deep shock she crashes her car and is severely injured.

Her legs are paralyzed and she has amnesia. In the hospital two interesting men struggle for her love. Alexandria writes a book inspired by Lori and Lori feels even more disappointed.

In the end Lori writes her own novel and the love of her life wins out.
